11/30/09

Dennis J. Regan and Thomas Krywinski, both formerly of McGladrey & Pullen, have joined the Shelton office of regional accounting, tax and business consulting firm BlumShapiro as partners, in part to deal with the firm's growth in Fairfield County.

Regan will serve as an audit partner, the company said, focusing on clients in the manufacturing, distribution and retail industries, and on non-profit organizations. Prior to joining BlumShapiro, Regan was a partner with McGladrey & Pullen, which he joined in 1989.

As a partner in the company's tax department, Krywinski will be involved with the tax consulting, planning and compliance aspects of corporations and individuals. He will primarily serve privately held corporations and their owners, with a focus on manufacturing and distribution clients. Additionally, he will work with the firm's tax-exempt organizations. He joins BlumShapiro after serving as a tax partner at McGladrey & Pullen.

BlumShapiro bills itself as the largest regional accounting, tax and business consulting firm based in Connecticut, and has offices in West Hartford, Shelton, Westport and Waterbury, Conn., and New York.
